

2018 MOUNTAIN SELECT CABERNET SAUVIGNON

Robert Parker Wine Advocate

Score: 93 points

Composed of 95% Cabernet Sauvignon and 5% Cabernet Franc, the 2018 Cabernet Sauvignon Mountain Select sails out of the glass with vibrant scents of freshly crushed blueberries, black raspberries and ripe blackcurrants with hints of dried mint, violets, pencil lead and iron ore. Medium- to full-bodied, the palate shimmers with gorgeous energy, featuring a lively backbone cutting through the tightly wound black fruit layers and grainy tannins, finishing with a minty lift.

Sweet-berry, bark and forest-floor aromas. It's medium- to full-bodied with notes of blackberry, violet, cedar and spice. The palate is savory and juicy with round tannins. The finish is elegant, clean and showing length. Needs three to four years to come together. Try after 2023. - December 17, 2020

The 2018 Cabernet Sauvignon Mountain Select checks in at 95% Cabernet Sauvignon and 5% Cabernet Franc. Revealing a deep ruby/purple color as well as a classic Cabernet nose of red and black currants, green tobacco, cedarwood, and Asian spices, it hits the palate with medium- to full-bodied richness, a seamless, elegant texture, nicely integrated acidity, and a great finish. This is a complex, satisfying, impeccably made Cabernet Sauvignon to enjoy over the coming 10-15 years. - January 27, 2021
